The Chrysler Building, an Art Deco skyscraper as iconic as New York City itself, is going up for sale. Located at the corner of 42nd Street and Lexington Avenue, the building is a favorite backdrop for films, plays and television including "Sex and the City," "Kramer vs. Kramer" and "Spider-Man." The 77-story stainless steel-clad skyscraper, briefly the world's tallest building after it was finished in 1930, remains an attraction for tourists and locals alike. While the broker won't give up the building's asking price — and if you have to ask, you probably can't afford it — one thing's for sure: NYC's skyline is nothing without the Chrysler Building. Read more about the current owners of the historic building for sale at metro.us.

WEINSTEIN SEX ASSAULT
TRIAL SET FOR MAY

Disgraced movie mogul Harvey Weinstein will go on trial in Manhattan on May 6 on charges of sexually assaulting two women, his lawyer said on Tuesday. Weinstein is accused of forcibly performing oral sex on a woman in July 2006 and raping another woman in March 2013. He faces five charges, including rape, and a maximum sentence of life in prison if convicted. More than 70 women, mostly young actresses and others in the movie business, have accused Weinstein, 66, of sexual assaults dating back decades. The scandal helped launch the #MeToo movement, in which hundreds of women have publicly accused powerful men in entertainment, politics and other fields of sexual misconduct. Weinstein, who pleaded not guilty after his arrest last May, has denied all the accusations, saying any sexual encounters were consensual. The New York prosecution, which was brought by the Manhattan district attorney's office, is the only criminal case to emerge from those allegations to date. Weinstein's lawyer, Benjamin Brafman, confirmed the trial date in an email on Tuesday.

CELEBRITY CHEF BATALI
WON'T FACE CHARGES

Celebrity chef Mario Batali will reportedly not face charges after being accused of sexual assault by two women. The New York Police Department has closed the two investigations into Batali's alleged misconduct, multiple outlets reported. The NYPD declined to comment on the specifics of any investigation but said in a statement that it "takes sex crimes and sexual assault very seriously, and encourages anyone with information about such a crime to report it to police, so perpetrators can be prosecuted, and justice can be secured for survivors." The department was not able to develop probable cause in either of the two Mario Batali cases it was investigating, according to CNN. Allegations first surfaced against Batali in December 2017, when four women said the chef "touched them inappropriately in a pattern of behavior that appears to span at least two decades." After those allegations, Batali was fired from ABC's "The Chew" and apologized in his newsletter, writing that he "made many mistakes and I am so very sorry that I have disappointed my friends, my family, my fans and my team."

TSA AGENTS' PAY UNCERTAIN AS GOVERNMENT SHUTDOWN CONTINUES

Passengers go through a Transportation Security Administration (TSA) security line on Wednesday at JFK Airport. It's been reported that hundreds of TSA screeners and agents have called in sick from their shifts at a number of major airports as the partial government shutdown continues. Employees of the TSA, whose job it is to keep airlines safe, are being forced to work without knowing when their next paycheck is coming.

'EL CHAPO' AIDE WHO

Accused Mexican drug cartel boss Joaquin "El Chapo" Guzman was so preoccupied with spying on his associates that he had software installed on their phones to monitor their texts and conversations, a key prosecution witness testified on Wednesday, an opening the FBI would later exploit. Christian Rodriguez, a technician who said he worked for Guzman from 2008 to 2012 and set up a secure communication system for the cartel, took the stand in federal court in Brooklyn to testify in Guzman's U.S. trial. Rodriguez said he handled Guzman's requests to install spyware on about 50 "special phones" he wanted to track. The software allowed Guzman to monitor users' calls and texts, and even to turn on a phone's microphone and record at any time without the user's knowledge. FBI agent Steven Marston testified earlier on Thursday that U.S. authorities obtained text messages from phones used by Guzman's wife and apparent mistress thanks to the spyware. Guzman, 61, was extradited to the United States in 2017 to face charges of trafficking cocaine, heroin and other drugs into the country as leader of Mexico's Sinaloa cartel.

'I'M OVER IT': KEVIN HART
RULES OUT OSCARS

Actor Kevin Hart ruled out hosting this year's Oscars because he no longer had enough time to prepare for the show, days after saying he was evaluating his December decision to step down over criticism of past homophobic comments. He told ABC that he was no longer willing to discuss the anti-gay comments he had made on Twitter in 2010 and 2011, which caused the uproar that led him to step down as host, saying his previous explanations and apology were sufficient. "I'm over it," he said repeatedly to almost every question on the topic during a sometimes testy interview on ABC's "Good Morning America." The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences named Hart as Oscars host in December, but he stepped down soon after amid criticism of his past tweets. Last week, Hart had said he was re-evaluating that decision after the openly-gay comedian Ellen DeGeneres, a past Oscars host, said she had called the Academy to advocate for Hart. By Wednesday, the evaluation appeared to be over. "No, I'm not hosting the Oscars this year," he said in an ABC interview. "It's not in God's plan right now."

Amazon's Jeff Bezos and wife MacKenzie announce divorce

Next up: How to split the Amazon chief's $160B.

Amazon founder and Chief Executive Jeff Bezos, the world's richest man, and wife MacKenzie are divorcing after 25 years of marriage, the couple said on Twitter on Wednesday.

Bezos, 54, has a fortune that has soared as high as $160 billion thanks to his stake in Amazon, which again became Wall Street's most valuable company this week.

Bezos has credited MacKenzie, 48, for her support when he uprooted the young couple from New York to Seattle so he could launch the online bookseller that grew into one of the world's largest retailers. MacKenzie, a Princeton graduate who is now a novelist, did accounting for Amazon for its first year after it was founded in 1994.

The couple decided to divorce after a long period of "loving exploration" and trial separation, and expect to continue as partners in joint ventures and projects, according to the joint statement.

Reuters was unable to determine any further financial details of the planned divorce.

Amazon did not immediately return requests for comment about the status of the Bezos ownership stake or what impact the divorce might have on the company.

MacKenzie Bezos met her husband when interviewing for a job at a New York hedge fund, according to a 2013 profile in Vogue. The two were engaged after three months of dating and married three months after that, according to the magazine. The pair have four children.

Speaking at an event in Berlin last April, Jeff Bezos said MacKenzie's support was instrumental when he founded Amazon in 1994, and that she did the accounting for the company in its first year.

"When you have loving and supportive people in your life, like MacKenzie, my parents, my grandfather, my grandmother, you end up being able to take risks," he said at the event.

Jeff Bezos in September committed $2 billion through the Bezos Day One Fund to helping homeless families and starting preschools for low-income communities. He had solicited ideas on Twitter in 2017 for ways to donate some of his wealth.

Last January, the couple donated $33 million to fund college scholarships for U.S. high schoolers with Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) status, an Obama-era program protecting young immigrants brought to the United States illegally by their parents.

In 2012, they donated $2.5 million to a Washington state campaign to legalize same-sex nuptials there.

Amazon shares were down 0.2 percent in mid-day trading on Wednesday. The divorce should have no material impact on the company and its shares, said Thomas Forte, an analyst at DA Davidson & Co.

From modest beginnings, Amazon branched out into almost every product category, taking on established retailers such as Wal-Mart.

Under Bezos, Amazon launched the Kindle e-reader and revolutionized the way books are distributed and read. The company has also been a pioneer in cloud computing.

In November, Amazon picked America's financial and political capitals for massive new offices, branching out from its home base in Seattle with plans to create more than 25,000 jobs in both New York City and just outside Washington, D.C. REUTERS

Trump walks out on talks with Schumer, Pelosi, threatens border emergency

The walkout comes a day before the president's trip to the southern border.

President Donald Trump stormed out of talks with Democratic congressional leaders on Wednesday over funding for a border wall with Mexico and reopening the government, complaining the meeting in the White House was "a total waste of time."

On the 19th day of a partial government shutdown caused by the dispute over the wall, a short meeting that included Trump, Senate Democratic leader Chuck Schumer and House of Representatives Speaker Nancy Pelosi ended in acrimony with no sign of a resolution.

time," Trump wrote on Twitter. "I asked what is going to happen in 30 days if I quickly open things up, are you going to approve Border Security which includes a Wall or Steel Barrier?" Trump wrote. "Nancy said, NO. I said bye-bye, nothing else works!"

Exasperated Democrats called Trump's behavior a "temper tantrum" and said the meeting broke down when they refused to commit to funding his proposed southern border wall. Trump's desire for a wall between the United States and Mexico was a central theme of his 2016 presidential campaign.

Schumer told reporters that Trump asked Pelosi if she would fund his wall. "She said no. And he just got up and said: 'Then we have nothing to discuss,' and he just walked out."

"Again, we saw a temper tantrum because he couldn't get his way," Schumer added. "That is sad and unfortunate. We want to come to an agreement. We believe in border security. We have different views."

The breakdown in talks could strengthen the possibility that Trump will declare a national emergency to build a wall on the southern border if no deal with Congress can be reached on his request for $5.7 billion for the project.

Earlier on Wednesday, Trump said he had the authority to declare a national emergency that would let him pay for the wall with military funds. Vice President Mike Pence told reporters that Trump is still considering that option.

Asked what Trump

had gained by walking out of the talks, Pence said: "I think the president made his position very clear today: that there will be no deal without a wall."

Shortly after the White House meeting broke up, the Democratic-majority House of Representatives voted to pass legislation to end a partial shutdown of the Treasury Department and some other agencies that have been closed since Dec. 22, without money for the wall.

But there was no indication that the Senate, controlled by Trump's fellow Republicans, would allow a vote on the bill.

On Thursday, Trump travels to the border to highlight what he calls an immigration "crisis." He delivered his first prime-time television address from the Oval Office on Tuesday to make his case for the border wall. REUTERS

Guaranteed paid personal time for New Yorkers: Mayor

NYC will be the first city in America to guarantee paid vacation for all employees, says de Blasio.

WILL DRICKEY
will.drickey@metro.us

Ahead of the first state legislative sessions of the year, Mayor Bill de Blasio announced his intentions to guarantee paid personal time for all workers in the city. There are currently half a million working New Yorkers whose employers don't grant them any time off, something de Blasio describes as putting the U.S. behind the rest of the world.

"Every other major nation recognizes the necessity of paid personal time," de Blasio stated. "We as a country must get there, and New York City will lead the way."

"We as a country must get there, and New York City will lead the way."
Mayor Bill de Blasio

While many workers with full-time jobs enjoy paid time off through their employers, many workers in lower-paid, part-time or precarious employment aren't granted the same rights. According to de Blasio's office, there are 90,000 and 200,000 workers in the retail and hospitality/foodservice industries, respectively, who have to choose between spending time with their families and putting food on the table.

"It's clear to me that too often, Americans are overworked and undervalued," said City Council member and Public Advocate candidate Jumaane Williams, who had proposed legislation to guarantee paid time off as early as 2014. "That's inexcusable, and it's time to change. It's time to give working people a break."

As proposed by de Blasio, the Paid Personal Time legislation will require all businesses with five or more employees to give at least 10 days of paid time off per year. Workers will have the right to use this time for any reason they choose, though the mayor will allow businesses to require up to two weeks' notice and have "reasonable exceptions for granting leave."

Additionally, workers will not qualify for paid personal time until 120 days of employment, and unused time off will carry over into the following year.

This benefit, the mayor's office added, does not substitute for the five days of paid sick leave the state mandated back in 2014.

"One of the labor movement's most important struggles historically has been for workers to have time for themselves and their families," said Dr. Barbara Bowen, president of CUNY's Professional Staff Congress.

Assuming the proposed legislation becomes law, enforcement of its policies is another matter entirely. Workers in hospitality, retail and foodservice currently have several rights on paper that do not exist in practice.

Technically, employers are required to bring tipped workers' wages up to the state-mandated minimum of $15 per hour if they are not tipped enough to reach the threshold on their own. But many of these workers report rampant wage theft by business owners taking tips.

"Paid time off is crucial, especially for the lowest-wage workers who are least likely to have it," said Dahlia McManus, deputy director of the New York Working Families Party. "That's flexibility that some may take for granted, but too many working families in New York simply don't have."

Everything you need to know about joint replacement surgery

ASK ROTHMAN ORTHOPAEDICS:

When it comes to your health, you only want the most qualified specialists weighing in. Metro has you covered, teaming up with the world-renowned experts at Rothman Orthopaedics to fill in the question marks.

The decision to go all in with joint replacement surgery isn't a small one. Metro connected with Eric L. Grossman, M.D., a Rothman Orthopaedics surgeon who specializes in hip and knee joint replacement. Here are his thoughts on first-line treatments, conservative intervention, and surgery.

I'm experiencing joint pain. Do I need to see a specialist?

More often than not, pain, stiffness or disability are what bring a person into see a physician. The symptoms obviously drive the method of treatment, but if someone has been experiencing pain for a few weeks or a few months and has no prior diagnosis, conservative treatment is probably the way to go—physical therapy, medication and so on.

In some cases, a person may have lived with something like severe arthritis for years, and it's only later in life that they're actually pursuing treatment. In that case, it can be serious enough that it warrants surgery sooner rather than later. The big thing to look out for is pain that really disrupts normalcy, like the ability to walk or take part in recreational activities like tennis, golf or other sports.

What conservative treatments typically come before surgery?

It isn't the norm for a doctor to just recommend surgery right out the gate without a thorough and justified explanation. Some patients do show up with such unbelievable arthritis that surgery is likely, but we still try a limited course of conservative treatment. This focuses on wellness. Diet, exercise and weight loss are important since carrying excess weight can amplify the symptoms of arthritis for many people. Anti-inflammatory medications can also be helpful, and we do this safely by monitoring the patient and considering how it affects other organ systems.

Then there's physical therapy, which strengthens and optimizes function around the affected joint. There are also injectables, like steroids and cortisone injections. Nothing is without risk, but the right doctor can break down all the details to help guide patients in choosing the best treatments for them.

What makes Rothman Orthopaedics uniquely qualified to treat my joint pain?

With regard to surgical techniques, our team is super specialized. As a result, and through repetition, we're highly focused in our specialty areas and are on the cutting edge in terms of treatment and efficiency. Patient care is extremely important to us, and Rothman Orthopaedics believes in encouraging patients to recover at home, as opposed to convalescing in a rehab facility. One other thing worth mentioning is that we accept most major insurance providers, including Medicare.

Rothman Orthopaedics has offices in Manhattan, Westchester and various parts of New Jersey. Visit www.RothmanOrtho.com to find a specialist near you.

THE MTA AND THE BRONX — A HISTORY OF EXCLUSION THAT MUST END

OP-ED

ComptrollerGUSTAVO
RIVERAState
Senator

As every commuter knows, the MTA is archaic in many ways, with its leaky tunnels, ancient subway signals and outdated bus routes. But perhaps nothing in the agency's operations is more backward

— some might even say discriminatory — than the longstanding service agreement allowing Metro-North commuter trains to systematically bypass the Bronx and its residents.

For decades, Metro-North trains traveling on the New Haven line have sped past Bronx stations without picking up a local passenger on their way to Grand Central Station. This neglect is inscribed in the Metro-North's service agreement with the Connecticut State DOT and has its historical roots in a bygone arrangement dating all the way back to the mid-19th century.

It is government-sanctioned discrimination that, in 2018, is completely retrograde and must end.

Here is the history: In 1848, the New York-New Haven Railroad (NY&NH) was granted access to tracks owned by the New York-Harlem Railroad (NY&H), on the condition that they did not serve any passengers along the NY&H line. At the time, this decision was primarily about competition between rival railroads, not about service.

Over the decades — even as the Bronx grew into one of the most populous and diverse counties in the nation and as these train lines were consolidated under a single operator — this practice has been preserved, most recently by Metro-North and the Connecticut DOT.

What this means is that each morning, 55 Metro-North trains rumble down the New Haven line, hurdle past seven stations in the Bronx and Manhattan, and fail to serve a single Woodlawn, Norwood, Claremont, Belmont or East Harlem passenger, forcing them to wait for trains arriving on the separate Harlem line instead.

This must change. First, regular drop-off and pick-up service must be added immediately at each of these stations bypassed by the New Haven line.

Secondly, and more broadly, the MTA must "open up" its Metro-North and LIRR commuter rail service within the five boroughs — reducing exorbitant in-city fares, allowing free transfers with the subway and bus, and increasing local stops.

GETTY IMAGES

There are 41 commuter rail stations in the city, many of which are located in neighborhoods commonly referred to as "transit deserts." Yet these neighborhoods are clearly not being deserted by transit lines, they are being deserted by transit agencies.

At a time when the Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens are responsible for 84 percent of the city's net employment growth and 73 percent of its residential growth, this neglect is downright irrational and exclusionary. Opening up commuter rail is a smart, fast and affordable way to extend the reach of the transit system, improve job access and save hours of commuting time for thousands of New Yorkers.

These reforms are commonsense, fiscally responsible and long overdue. It is far past time for the MTA — and the Connecticut DOT — to move into the 21st century. They must stand clear of the doors and not hold service from the straphangers who need it most.

Council passes bill to track school buses with GPS

When Winter Storm Avery hit NYC on Nov. 15, 2018, the accumulating mix of snow and ice combined with limited snow removal resulted in school buses being stranded for hours.

Consequently, parents, guardians, activists and City Council members pushed for increased transparency and efficiency for city school buses. In its first session of the year, NYC's City Council passed the Student Transportation Oversight Package (STOP), which among other things will place GPS trackers and two-way radios on all school buses in the city.

"Every year, the start of the school year starts with nightmares of children who get stuck on buses for hours, leaving parents wondering where their children are," said NYC Council member Ben Kallos, on the addition of GPS trackers. "We can do it with Uber. The MTA does it with buses. None of this is new."

Part of the package will allow approved parents and guardians to view the live GPS location of their children's school bus, allaying the most severe concerns for tardy buses. Additionally, the Department of Education will be required to send notices of late school bus arrivals and departures on a daily basis.

"Imagine the frustration of a child aged 6, 13 or 17 who's had to endure an hour of travel time and then is expected to function well in the classroom. It's a struggle for a child," said Council member Andy King. "Bus companies and their drivers have a responsibility to us and parents to not leave us wondering why travel time is so long for our children to get to school and come home."

STOP also requires the Department of Education to make scheduled New York City school bus routes public at least 15 days before school starts; provide more extensive training for bus drivers who transport students with disabilities; and to report on details like the department's policies for handling complaints against bus drivers as well as the number of investigations into drivers, twice a year.

"We want to make sure we get kids to and from school safely, quickly and transparently," said NYC Council Speaker Corey Johnson.

L reimbursement for city, says City Council member

Ydanis Rodriguez still wants the L train shutdown mitigation plan to continue, though residents of the 14th Street Coalition disagree.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT

Council member Ydanis Rodriguez (at podium) called for the city to be reimbursed for more than three years of planning. FACEBOOK IMAGE

Gov. Andrew Cuomo's announcement that the full L train shutdown was unnecessary uprooted years of planning and preparation overnight, and City Council member Ydanis Rodriguez is calling for the city to be reimbursed for its efforts.

Rodriguez didn't have the total for how much the city had spent so far on L train shutdown contingency efforts, but said the City Council will start the process of tallying it all up. He also called on the Department of Transportation to "put those numbers together," including details like how much the city spent on surveys to get feedback from MTA riders.

"I'm calling for New York City to be reimbursed every single dollar, every single penny that we have spent planning for the shutting of the L train," he told reporters from the steps of City Hall on Wednesday.

It's been a week since Cuomo called off the L train shutdown, but without many details on the new repair plan made public, officials and residents say they have plenty of unanswered questions.

Transit activists and elected officials have said that although the L train shutdown may not happen as anticipated, the mitigation plan still needs to be in place to offset congestion and help commuters when MTA service is disrupted.

"One hundred percent, I believe that the mitigation plan is something that we should take advantage of," Rodriguez said. "I believe it is our responsibility to make our city more walkable, more friendly toward cyclists and pedestrians. I believe the mitigation plan was a good plan that we put on the table, and we should continue with the plan regardless of [whether] the L train continues operation."

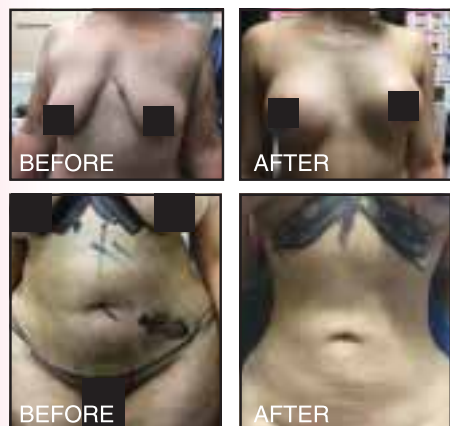

But residents who live around 14th Street in Manhattan disagree. Mitigation efforts, like turning 14th Street into a busway, banning vehicular traffic there for 17 hours a day, and expanding pedestrian walkways and bike lanes in the area, would make things worse for those within the surrounding community, the 14th Street Coalition argues.

"There are thousands and thousands of people that live on 14th Street that need access, young people with families or disabled people who need to have access, and a bus up and down the street isn't going to be the answer," said Judy Pesin of the coalition.

Pesin agreed that the city should be reimbursed for all it's spent in preparation for the L train shutdown, but disagreed that the mitigation efforts would still be necessary.

"The focus has been and continues to be on moving people through the neighborhood, without much care for the people in the neighborhood," she said.

Owners of New York's Chrysler Building hire CBRE to sell

The Chrysler Building, an Art Deco masterpiece that has been a defining image of New York City's skyline for decades, has been put up for sale, a minority owner of the building and a broker hired to market the property said on Wednesday.

The 77-story stainless steel-clad skyscraper, briefly the world's tallest building after it was finished in 1930, is 90 percent owned by the Abu Dhabi Investment Council, a sovereign wealth fund, with developer Tishman Speyer owning the remainder.

"It's exciting. I'm getting inquiries from all over the world," said Darcy Stacom, chairman and head of New York City Capital Markets at brokerage CBRE Group Inc.

The 1.26 million-square-foot building underwent a $100 million renovation after Tishman acquired the property in 1997. Tishman later reduced its holding. The sovereign wealth fund paid $800 million when it bought its stake in 2008.

The building's brand and its location on 42nd Street just east of Grand Central Terminal, a major Manhattan transportation hub, are ripe for greater retail exploitation, Stacom said.

The building's occupancy rate is in the low-80 percent range, below the city average, according to CBRE. Stacom declined to reveal the asking price for the building.

Stacom declined to give the vacancy rate at the Chrysler Building or the asking price.

Buildings on average are 50 years old in Midtown and many storefronts are empty, hard-hit by e-commerce. With the new Hudson Yards district on the far West Side attracting major corporations, concerns have been raised about Midtown's appeal.

But Midtown remains a favored business destination. JPMorgan Chase & Co. plans to build a new headquarters on nearby Park Avenue. One Vanderbilt, a marquee office tower, is rising just west of Grand Central.

Age could be a selling point, too, as seen by the popularity of Midtown South, which has the city's lowest vacancy rate and companies such as Alphabet Inc.'s Google and Facebook Inc. occupy century-old structures. REUTERS

To celebrate Woodstock's 50th, more peace, love and music

The event will take place at NASCAR's Watkins Glen upstate.

The 50th anniversary of the Woodstock music festival, one of the watersheds of the 1960s counterculture movement, will be celebrated in August with two competing events.

Michael Lang, the co-producer of the 1969 Woodstock festival, announced on Wednesday that the official Woodstock Music and Arts Fair would take place from Aug. 16-18 at a motor-racing venue in upstate New York.

Last month, the Bethel Woods Center for the Arts, the current owners of the field where the 1969 festival took place, announced it would mark the 50th anniversary with a "pan-generational event" on the same dates.

"The original festival in '69 was a reaction by the youth of the time to the causes we felt compelled to fight for — civil rights, women's rights and the antiwar movement, and it gave way to our mission to share peace, love and music," Lang said in a statement.

"Today, we're experiencing similar disconnects in our country, and one thing we've learned is that music has the power to bring people together. So, it's time to bring the Woodstock spirit back, get involved and make our voices heard."

The August 1969 Woodstock festival, billed as "three days of peace and music," is regarded as one of the pivotal moments in music history.

Over three sometimes-rainy days, more than 30 acts — including Jimi Hendrix, Janis Joplin, The Who, The Band, and the Grateful Dead — performed around the clock to a 400,000-strong audience, most of whom watched for free and camped on-site in the mud. The festival was documented in the 1970 film "Woodstock," which won an Oscar.

Lang did not announce the 2019 performer line-up but said more than 60 musicians would take part on three main stages at Watkins Glen International, the site of car racing events including NASCAR.

"One thing we've learned is that music has the power to bring people together. So, it's time to bring the Woodstock spirit back, get involved and make our voices heard."

festival

"It will be primarily contemporary talent, but the legacy acts will be represented and honored," said Lang, referring to the surviving musicians, now in their 70s, who continue to perform.

Although it was known as Woodstock, the 1969 festival actually took place in Bethel, some 70 miles south of the village of Woodstock and 90 miles north of New York City.

Watkins Glen has a larger crowd capacity and is some 150 miles distant from Bethel and about 250 miles north of New York City. REUTERS

Important Knee Arthritis Pain Alert

Study Shows Simple Treatment Helps Avoid Knee Replacement Surgery For 75% Of Worst Cases At Least 7.3 Years...

*Free Screenings Offered At NYC Medical Clinic To See If You Qualify For This Proven And Effective Treatment. Spots Are Limited Due To High Demand

NYC - What would it be worth to you if... in just 60 minutes... you could finally discover a way to get relief for your knee arthritis pain?

And...

How would it feel if you could wake up tomorrow morning and some... or even all your pain was gone?

And...

Wouldn't it be wonderful to start a brand new life and leave all your pain and suffering behind?

A life where...

...you jump out of bed in the morning, well rested and ready to take on the new day, without pain...

...you don't have to take slow, limping laps around your bedroom just to be able to walk every morning...

...you can go for walks, go up and down stairs and maybe even play sports like tennis and golf again...

...you can finally do all the things and enjoy life (just like everyone else) without constant, nagging pain...

Well... that's exactly what can possibly happen to you if you spend just 60 minutes with us...

...Because that's all it will take for one of our expert doctors to show you what we believe to be the safest, and most effective knee arthritis pain treatment there is...

I know you may find this hard to believe. Just about every one does when we tell them about this... at first.

But it doesn't take long for them to turn from skeptic to raving fan as soon as their pain improves so fast.

Do You Have An Open Mind?

So, I'm not asking you to believe me just yet. All I ask is you approach this and read the rest of this information with an open mind. If you give us a chance, we promise, you won't be disappointed...

Because There is Proof Real medical proof.

Here it is. A leading Orthopedic Surgeon and knee pain expert was getting excellent results with this non-surgical treatment on his own patients. In fact, this study involved almost 2000 patients followed over 10 years.

And more specifically, he was getting amazing results the way HE was doing this treatment using high tech imaging for precise technique... just like we do it...

And he wanted to prove... beyond a shadow of a doubt... the results he got... were not only REAL... they could most likely work for others just like you.

So he conducted some research, an 11 year project, and is was published in the "Journal of Knee Surgery"... a Real and REPUTABLE medical journal (A copy of this research is available on our website or by mail)

What were his results and what do they mean for your pain?

In this study he found that 75% of the severe knee arthritis pain patients he treated... and were facing knee replacement surgery... did not need to have knee replacement surgery... and were still OK 7.3 years later!

This is incredible news for you... and here's why...

The patients in this study were Stage 4 knee arthritis. That's the most advanced and worst stage. These are the cases that are usually sent for knee replacement surgery.

These patients had also gone through the common medical treatments like pain and anti-inflammatory pills, physical therapy etc. and all that had failed.

So... these were the WORST cases of which every thing else had failed ... YET, after this treatment, 75% still did not need knee replacement even more than 7 years later.

And it gets better. The study only collected data up to that time. It is pretty safe to say that many may never need surgery.

Bottom line: This study clearly showed this treatment is safe and extremely effective even for even the worst cases.

So, even if you aren't one of the worst cases... imagine what it can do for you.

What IS This Treatment And How Can You Find Out If It Can Help You?

As studied as this treatment is.... you may have an "Oh No!" reaction.

Why? Because there is a very good chance you have heard of it. You may have even given it a try... and NOT gotten good results.

That's because this treatment is actually pretty common now a days. But... and this is a very big BUT... there is a very specific way to apply this treatment (as done in the study) that makes it so successful. And many are NOT doing it this way.

So... please hear us out. This really might be the answer you are looking for. Ok... here is the treatment and the full scoop on why it works so well... when done THIS WAY.

The treatment is called "viscosupplementation." It is frequently called, "gel treatment." Or "joint oil".

In this treatment, a gel is painlessly injected directly into you arthritic joint. This lubricates the joint, reduces friction... and allows more movement without all the inflammation and "grinding" caused by arthritis.

This is like putting oil on a rusty hinge. Once the oil is applied, the hinge can move must better.

But here is something you must know:

In that research project, all of the procedures were done with highly advanced imaging to guide the injections and make sure the gel got into the joint space area ultra-precisely.

This is EXTREMELY important... because... research also shows that injections done WITHOUT this imaging to guide them... can miss the joint space about one third of the time.

That means, in one third of the injections, the gel wasn't in the joint space and couldn't possibly work!!!

We feel this is why so many people have tried this treatment and DIDN'T get good results like in the patients in this research.

So, if you have already had this treatment and it didn't work... was it done with this advanced medical imaging?

If not... there is still hope.

In fact, there is a very good chance you can still get relief.

Here is why: NYC Pain MD is a medical clinic located at 65 Broadway Suite 1004 New York, NY 10006.

We have physicians who focus in this treatment... and we use the advanced imaging to make sure the treatments are extremely precise and get the best results possible.

In fact, we have a doctor trained at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, Cornell University and even Harvard Medical School.

We have the best... but we also make treatments VERY affordable

Just because we offer the best possible treatments and doctors... doesn't mean we Study shows this treatment was successful in 75% of knee arthritis pain sufferers... saving them from surgery for at least 7.3 years. Will it work for you? Find out for FREE are so expensive only rich people can get our wonderful treatments.

While treatments may be covered by Medicare and some insurances... we also offer pricing plans for as little as $13.57 per week so patients can finally relieve their pain and try to avoid surgery.

We don't want lack of insurance or money to be the reason you continue suffering.

Your Special Invitation...

If you have knee arthritis pain... and are even just a little interested in finding out what this treatment can do for you... we are inviting you to come in for a FREE screening appointment.

During this screening, you will get to talk to the doctor... ask questions... and find out if you qualify.

We will go over everything with you... and you will breathe a big sigh of relieve finally having real answers and a specific plan to to possibly relieve your pain.

We will leave no stone unturned... and we will help you any way we can.

Please understand this:

This treatment can possibly take away your pain...

No matter how long you've been suffering. It really doesn't matter. It may take a little more time if you've been suffering for years as opposed to a "new" case... but in the end... you can still get tremendous results...

No matter how bad or helpless you THINK your case is. Many of our patients thought their case was hopeless, too far gone, for anything to help them. Many of their previous doctors told them that. Well you're NOT. With this treatment... the way our expert doctors do it... there is always hope.

Most of our patients have told us we were their last resort. Last stop before packing it in and completely giving up and submitting to surgery. They soon found out that our treatments made it really easy to get relief... and, best of all...

You Get To See If You Qualify For FREE

That's right. We want you to see EVERYTHING first hand and to prove to you... without a shadow of a doubt... we have the help for your knee pain that you are desperately wanting. And we want to do it without you spending a penny or risking anything to find out.

That's why we are offering you this free screening.

So my big question for you is – is the opportunity to wake up tomorrow morning... and every other morning for the rest of your life... with less pain... worth the 60 minutes it will take to be evaluated?

What else could you possibly do with that same 60 minutes that could have such a profound impact on the rest of you and your family's lives?

You know, it's really disappointing to me that so many people just go on living with pain when you don't have to. So many of patients tell us how they used to be in pain... just about every day.

They were in so much pain... they were grumpy and miserable all the time. They hated work. They're relationships were strained. Life was just one big struggle Now that they've discovered what we will reveal to you at your free screening... all that's changed... Work and family have become rewarding and fun. Life is so much easier and better... in so many ways... without the pain. Finally, things start falling into place the way you always thought they would.

One of the best things or physicians and staff hear is "Hey doc since starting this program I've lost 17 pounds because now that I can finally move around pain-free the weight just keeps coming off!"

Which one of those amazing things I just mentioned would you like to happen to you... right now.

Maybe it's none of the things I've mentioned. But, you do have hopes and dreams. We all do. And pain robs you of the opportunity to live out those hopes and dreams. Robs you of the life you really and desperately want... and deserve.

Whatever YOUR personal hopes and dreams are... They are all possible if you take action... right now.

All you have to do is give this a chance and schedule for the screening. But then again...

What's also possible is that your pain starts getting worse. And that happens to so many people from just doing nothing.

Taking action may seem like a little work... or... it may even be a little scary for you – but not taking actions is almost always worse. The eight most dangerous words to your future, your health, and your hopes and dreams just may be...

It Will Just Get Better All By Itself!

Fact is... it may only get worse.

Here Is How To Get Your Free Screening...

Just call us at 1-877-380-8537 and tell the scheduling coordinator you want your free screening. If you are one of the first 50, it is 100% free. No obligation or strings attached.

There is NOTHING to pay for and you will NOT be stressed in any way. We don't ever do that. You see, is not uncommon for us to get over 100 new patient calls in a single day.

Most are from word of mouth. But we wanted to open up this opportunity to as many arthritis pain sufferers as possible.

But because we get so many calls... we can only take 50 from what you are reading this month.

You have absolutely zero to lose and possibly everything to gain. But due to high call volume, we suggest you call now. 1-877-380-8537.

NJ TRANSIT BENCHES

Nancy Oneness complained that there were no benches at NJT at Penn Station in NYC. When I was there Dec. 31, there were plenty of seats in the waiting area, which, as I recall, is near the info desk and the WCs. The area she seems to have described is the corridor for boarding, with access to the gates. She needs to ask for directions to the waiting area.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BENCHES
In response to Nancy Oneness'

Grumble, I think I can answer her question as to why there is little consideration for travelers at commuting hubs who are desperate to sit. It's because they don't want to encourage homeless people to loiter and use those seats for beds. Plain and simple, even though it's unfortunate.

IT'S TIME TO BE 'FARE'

Though I don't have the most, I do have compassion. I saw this young man in the subway asking for a swipe to get to his destination. The look of defeat in his face from people passing him by. I decided to get him a $10 MetroCard. Not only was he thankful, but he was so relieved he didn't have to beg to return home. I was grateful I could be a relief in this young man's day.

Sarah Silverman says goodbye to her Hulu series. ALI GOLDSTEIN/HULU

Sarah Silverman's 'I Love You, America' canceled by Hulu

The comedian's late-night-style talk show has been canceled after only one season.

ANDREW HUSBAND
drew.husband@metro.us

Sarah Silverman's "I Love You, America" has been canceled by Hulu, according to the show host and comedian, who broke the news on Wednesday via Twitter.

The program, which mixed pre-taped segments about largely political themes with guest interviews, sketches and monologues, streamed the final episode of its 21-episode run on Nov. 15, 2018.

"Well, Hulu cancelled I LOVE YOU AMERICA and we're all pretty damn heartbroken," Silverman said in her tweet. "So in traditional twitter funeral style, I'll be RTing the love."

Funny or Die, the company that produces the show with Silverman, released a statement shortly thereafter:

"We are so proud of 'I Love You, America' and congratulate Sarah, the producers and the entire team for engaging thoughtful conversation and showcasing such diverse points of view every week. Whether it was connecting with firemen in Mineola, Texas, over 'pooping their pants' stories, or going on a blind date with a conservative lobbyist in D.C., Sarah's commitment was boundless and there is nothing more to say than 'we love you' to the whole crew."

When Hulu first announced "I Love You, America," the streamer described Silverman as a comedian known for everything from "inciting treason to telling poop jokes." However, with the new show, she was "looking to connect with people who may not agree with her personal opinions through honesty, humor, genuine interest in others, and not taking herself too seriously." As this writer has previously argued, that's exactly what "I Love You, America" did.

Since then, the show has been nominated for Emmy and Writer's Guild of America awards. Even so, it seems Hulu doesn't think it was worth promoting for a second season. This is a loss for fans of the silly yet insightful comic, but it's also a huge detriment to the late-night TV genre. When "I Love You, America" premiered on Oct. 12, 2017, Samantha Bee and Chelsea Handler were the only other female late-night talk show hosts. The rest of the genre was populated by male (and mostly white, straight and cis) hosts like Jimmy Fallon, Jimmy Kimmel and Stephen Colbert.

Just over a year later, Handler's series is no more and Michelle Wolf's Netflix show has come and gone. Bee's program is still on at TBS and actress Busy Philipps' new talk show premiered on E! in October, but with "I Love You, America"'s cancellation, they are the only two female late-night hosts on TV today.

After being saved from cancellation, the hit comedy is back for a new season. NBC

‘Brooklyn Nine-Nine’ is back and better than ever

The hit comedy returns with a new season and a new home at NBC.

drew.husband@metro.us

“Brooklyn Nine-Nine” season 6 is almost here, thanks in large part to NBC, which saved it from cancellation after FOX decided to part ways with the comedy series. So when is it coming back, and how can audiences tune in when it does? Here’s what you need to know.

What is “Brooklyn Nine-Nine” season 6 about?

At the very end of the season 5 finale cliffhanger, Captain Ray Holt (Andre Braugher) had just received an email concerning his bid to become the NYPD’s next commissioner. Dets. Jake Peralta (Andy Samberg) and Amy Santiago (Melissa Fumero), who had just married, were left waiting for Holt’s revelation along with the rest of the precinct — and the audience. Thankfully, the season 6 premiere picks up right where the finale left off.

Obviously, for the sake of avoiding spoilers, there are no details here about Holt’s answer and the episode that ensues. Just know that “Brooklyn Nine-Nine”’s official debut on NBC feels like a seamless transition from its previous home at FOX. All the same character and story beats are there, the jokes are good and Chelsea Peretti’s outgoing character Gina is as wonderful as ever.

If the season premiere is any indication, creator and showrunner

Dan Goor and his team haven’t lost their touch simply because the NBC-produced show is now housed by a new distributor: Stephanie Beatriz, Terry Crews and Joe Lo Truglio each get their own moments to shine throughout the episode’s many intertwining subplots and gags. Hell, even Dirk Blocker and Joel McKinnon Miller get some fantastic bits in.

But how can eager viewers go about watching it? The season 6 premiere is slated for the 9 p.m. Thursday time slot, so feel free to watch it then or set your DVR accordingly. Otherwise, if you’re a Hulu subscriber, you can check out the new episode when it’s available to stream on Friday.

“Brooklyn Nine-Nine” season 6 premieres tonight at 9 p.m. on NBC.

VIVIAN ZINK/NBC

"Brooklyn Nine-Nine" has a new home at NBC. NBC

Why Chelsea Peretti is leaving 'Brooklyn Nine-Nine'

For five years, fans of "Brooklyn Nine-Nine" have known Chelsea Peretti as Gina Linetti, the precinct's civilian administrative assistant who once dubbed herself "the human form of the '100' emoji." With the show's cancellation by FOX and subsequent pickup by NBC, however, the comedian recently announced on Twitter that she would be leaving the series during season 6.

"I won't be doing a full season of 'Brooklyn Nine-Nine' in Season 6. But that doesn't mean I won't ever be back," she wrote. "I want to thank you for the hours you spent watching Gina be Gina."

"Brooklyn Nine-Nine" co-creator Dan Goor released a statement on Twitter soon after Peretti's announcement.

"She has brought so much to her amazing, hilarious, unique portrayal of Gina Linetti, which is not surprising since she is one of the funniest people in history," he wrote. "While it's sad to see a member of the family leave, we are so proud of Chelsea and excited for what she does next. Also, I know for a fact this isn't the last we'll see of Gina Linetti."

"I mean, she got run over by a frickin' bus, and she only missed like a week of work," he added, alluding to the midseason cliffhanger in the show's fourth season.

So while it seems that Peretti won't be a part of the show's entire 18-episode run for season 6 (and the first one at NBC), the precise reason for the comedian's departure remains a mystery. Unlike what happened with Clayne Crawford over at FOX's "Lethal Weapon," it doesn't look like any behind-the-scenes drama has unfolded between Peretti and the show.

If anything, the actress' upcoming slate of film projects like "Friendsgiving" and "Spinster," and her continued work with other television shows like Netflix's "Big Mouth," may offer a simple explanation.

Peretti is now in high demand for her comedic talents, both on camera and in the voice-recording booth. Perhaps the prospect of doing another entire season of a show (and potentially more seasons after that) would have prevented her from doing much of anything else.

Or, maybe not. We'll never know until Peretti, Goor or anyone else associated with "Brooklyn Nine-Nine" who just so happens to know why the actress is leaving decides to 'fess up.

Then again, considering the ensemble nature of the show and the quality of its writer's room, fans shouldn't worry about Peretti's departure ahead of the season 6 premiere. Since Universal Television, and not FOX, has always been responsible for the show's production, not much else should be changing aside from the distributor.

The Cannabis Film Festival takes over House of Yes to showcase the wide world of marijuana culture.

EVA KIS
eva.kis@metro.us

Nobody had a better 2018 than cannabis — there's even a luxury dispensary on Fifth Avenue, and the New York Cannabis March finally went mainstream after five decades of advocacy. Will 2019 finally be the year that New York legalizes not just medicinal, but recreational, marijuana? The outlook is good, so it's time you got a broader picture of what cannabis culture really is at the NYC Cannabis Film Festival.

Taking place this Sunday, Jan. 13, at Bushwick's hub for all things alternative entertainment, House of Yes, the festival takes the cannabis experience beyond smoking cartoon-size blunts with Cheech and Chong and going on psychedelic adventures fueled by White Castle burgers.

Festival founder Michael Zaytsev spends all year challenging the myths around marijuana as head of the community group High NY, hosting social and educational marijuana-themed events. The Cannabis Film Festival is a broader window into who the "typical marijuana user" is and the many roles the drug plays in their lives.

"There's this myth of the ne'er-do-well or the troublemaker, when in reality if you look at the actual data, it's people of all backgrounds, ages, everyone, every community, every culture. There are folks using this plant for a therapeutic benefit, so let's stop pretending this is some kind of outcast, outlaw thing," he says.

MC Flow's "Welcome to the Dispensary" music video kicks off each screening of the NYC Cannabis Film Festival. YOUTUBE

The festival has been going on since 2015, presenting short films and features submitted by independent filmmakers in genres ranging from comedies to documentaries, dramas and "hybrid" films meant to be experienced while in an altered state. "For most people, cannabis facilitates higher consciousness or joy or connection with whatever they enjoy doing anyway," Zaytsev explains. "It's to enhance the experience they're already seeking."

A few of this year's notable films include "The Secret History," about the surprising link between the LGBTQ rights advocates and the movement to legalize marijuana; "Bodega," about the role they play in NYC culture and the impact of gentrification; the experimental film "City of Dreams," about the beauty of New York; and the Madrid International Film Festival-winning "stoner adventure comedy" "Occupied Heart."

The films will be presented during four separately ticketed sessions ($30), which include Q&As with producers, directors and actors. While there won't be cannabis sales at the event, attendees do get free popcorn and snacks to curb the munchies.

And because the NYC Cannabis Film Festival is an unconventional event, movies will be judged in categories ranging from Most High and Best Journalism.

And yes, Zaytsev plans to continue the festival after legalization. "My sponsorship price will definitely go up," he laughs. "I would love for this to be as big as the Tribeca Film Festival in a few years."

Tickets for the NYC Cannabis Film Festival are $30 and available on eventbrite.com.

How to sleep for free (or nearly free) when traveling

NerdWallet is a personal finance website.

Credit card rewards can be your ticket to a dream destination. But even if you've earned what you need to get to where you're going, the accommodations could be a different story.

What do you do if you don't have enough points or miles left for lodging?
You can slash those costs, too, if you're willing to get out of your comfort zone. That might mean couch-surfing with locals, agreeing to a home
exchange or signing up traveler might like.

Other best practices

Look for hosts who have several positive references, photos and detailed descriptions.

- See how your host behaves on social media.
- Set up a video meet-and-greet.
- Make sure you're on the same page with house rules and expectations of privacy.
- Tell a family member or friend where you're staying.
- Have a Plan B in case the accommodations aren't a good fit.

for housesitting. Websites and apps can help you connect with frugal options domestically and abroad. You may be able to stay for free, or nearly free, if you're flexible with dates and can abide by house rules.

Couch-surfing

This option works for solo travelers or couples looking to make new friends over a few nights.
Since you're staying in someone's home, you'll likely need to "check in and out" at reasonable hours and clean up after yourself.

Housesitting

If you don't mind pets or a few chores while you travel, you can see the world for less.

states, among other destinations. They frequently app and charges $119 for an annual membership.

They suggest considering the responsibilities of each housesit beforehand and how it might affect your stay.

Take precautions

If you're staying with strangers, screen them first. Some subscription services have a verification process, but it's not

If that sounds like too much hassle — or if you're just not interested in a stranger's couch, house or chores — consider ways to save on more traditional accommodations.

Join a hotel loyalty
program, for example, or consider applying for a hotel credit card. The right one can earn you rewards toward future stays, and many cards even offer usually in exchange for an annual fee.

ChiSox look favored to land Manny

The Yankees will find out if they land the star infielder within the week.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

The wait for Manny Machado's decision is almost over for the New York Yankees, but things don't look too promising.

Bruce Levine of Chicago 670 reported on Wednesday that the 26-year-old All-Star's free-agency decision is expected to come within a week.

As it stands, three teams are in on Machado, the Yankees being joined by the Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia Phillies. All three have held meetings with the infielder and have made their pitches, but things have significantly slowed since Machado's December tour.

While the decision comes down to the former Oriole and Dodger, the market for Machado lagged after questions of his character and commitment became apparent during his 2018 postseason run with Los Angeles.

Once a talent expected to make near $300 million, Machado

All-Star infielder Manny Machado will choose between the Yankees, White Sox and Phillies this week. GETTY IMAGES is now slated to land a deal ranging between $220 million and $270 million.

The severity of the Yankees' interest has experienced its fair share of ebb and flow. After not being too keen on bringing Machado in as the offseason began, the Yankees suddenly were highly motivated in the sweepstakes, although it became clear that they were not going to get into a bidding war. That kind of frugality is a foreign concept for many Yankees fans.

Yet there is still a chance the Yankees could bolster the left side of their infield while Didi Gregorius recovers as Machado's wife reportedly prefers to see her husband head to the Bronx, per Wallace Matthews of the New York Daily News.

Levine's report added that all three teams have made formal offers to Machado, but it looks like the White Sox have become the clear front-runners to land him.

Chicago has done its due diligence to make the smaller-market franchise more appealing to Machado. The White Sox traded for Machado's brother-in-law, Yonder Alonso, from the Cleveland Indians back in December before adding outfielder Jon Jay in free agency on Tuesday. The three of them train together in Miami during the offseason.

If that's enough to get Machado, the Yankees are slated to roll out an Opening Day infield that features Troy Tulowitzki at shortstop and Miguel Andujar at third. Tulowitzki is a major wild card at the position to fill in for Gregorius after the former Rockie and Blue Jay missed the entire 2018 season with heel problems. He's played in just 66 games since the start of 2017.

Losing out on Machado isn't the end of the world for the Yankees, who are still favored to win the American League East in 2019, but general manager Brian Cashman might have just lost out on the player that makes the Bronx Bombers a lock for a 28th World Series title.

Knicks, Kings in talks over Kanter

It looks like the next time Enes Kanter gets consistent playing time as a starter, it won't be with the New York Knicks.

ESPN's Adrian Wojnarowski reported on Wednesday morning that the Knicks are in talks with the Sacramento Kings to trade the expiring contract of Kanter for Zach Randolph, who will also be a free agent following the 2018-19 season.

The deal would provide a return to New York for Randolph, who spent 80 games with the Knicks between 2007-2009. It was one of the best stretches of his career as he averaged 18 points and 10.6 rebounds per game.

For Kanter, it would provide a much-needed change of scenery as his playing time continues to be sporadic under first-year head coach David Fizdale.

The 26-year-old has not started in six games despite being one of the team's most talented offensive weapons without Kristaps Porzingis.

It's clear that the center does not fit in the team's plans under Fizdale and general manager Scott Perry as the Knicks are on the verge of possibly making some big changes to the roster this offseason. Offloading Kanter allows Fizdale to take a closer look at all corners of the roster, which includes young big men Mitchell Robinson (recovering from injury) and Luke Kornet.

Jets hire Gase as next head coach

Jets' coaching search comes to surprising end as they bring in the former Dolphins head coach.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

The New York Jets have their next head coach, hiring Adam Gase on Wednesday night, as first reported by ESPN's Adam Schefter.

Gase spent the past three seasons as the head coach of the AFC East division-rival Miami Dolphins, where he compiled a 23-25 record before getting fired following the completion of the 2018 season.

Considered as a franchise stuck in neutral, Gase didn't do much to buck the trend for the Dolphins as he followed a 10-6 2016 campaign with records of 6-10 and 7-9.

He'll be joining a franchise that has had even tougher times in the Jets. As Todd Bowles' successor, the 40-year-old Gase will be tasked with turning around a franchise that has had just one winning season since 2011.

It's been an especially difficult past three seasons as the Jets have gone a combined 14-33.

Yet things are looking up for a franchise that hasn't played in a Super Bowl since winning it in 1969. They are expected to have over $100 million in cap space to bring in established veteran upgrades to surround 21-year-old quarterback Sam Darnold.

The USC product is considered by many around the organization to be the savior of the franchise and he did perform admirably in his rookie campaign despite the Jets limping to a 4-12

Adam Gase.

GETTY IMAGES

finish. New York is taking every necessary step to ensure he meets those expectations as Gase is an offensive-minded coach who will be looked upon to develop Darnold.

Gase worked well with Dolphins quarterback Ryan Tannehill when he was healthy, the 30-year-old veteran passer playing some of the best football of his career over the past three seasons.

It's that kind of experience that the Jets have been lacking. In fact, Gase will be the first leading man for Gang Green with prior head-coaching experience for the first time since Bill Parcells in 1997.

In recent days, Gase

was seen as more of a dark horse for the job. Reports on Tuesday indicated that Baylor University head coach Matt Rhule was the team's favorite for the job. Just hours later, former Green Bay Packers head coach and Super Bowl winner Mike McCarthy made it known that he wanted to coach the Jets and no one else.

With Gase now in charge, the Jets will look to quickly fill the rest of their coaching vacancies. NFL.com's Ian Rapoport reported just moments after Gase's hiring that the Jets are keen on bringing in former Denver Broncos head coach Vance Joseph as their defensive coordinator.
